“ Dear Clinton, this is your niece Angie! We have had our ups and downs and flights, sorry you are gone, sorry nobody knew about you till Kyle found you he was devastated to know you were gone he is the one that looked you up mom to I believe we let the family know about your passing uncle Mike aunt Karen tried to get your ashes but they were told you weren't gone but you are here and I'm sending you this I want you to know that when I was little I have not once forgotten what you did to me that was so wrong on a lot of levels I am your niece you had no right to sexually abuse me I remember all the details you did to me and I not once ever forgot how you touched me the way you did but I'm here today to let you know if I haven't been able to find good in my life be baptized let Christ in my whole life ❤️💜 I wouldn't ever find the way to forgive you James was the first I told I did tell mom but like I said if I didn't find God in my life I would be spitting on your grave your very lucky I have God in my life ❤️ and so today I'm here to let you know I forgive you but I will never ever be able to forget that my love from me to you you was meant to my grandma she didn't deserve what you did to her yeah we know I know where you are now you should pray God let you in heaven because he doesn't like the bad and ugly, So today on this day of October 23 I forgive you! Rest in peace, Kyle loves and misses you very much and others do as well I will try to light a candle some day but now forgiveness is all I can give but never forget. Bye Uncle Clint love Angie????!!!❤️

“ When I was younger, my family and I came over to my grandma's (his mom's) and we're having some visit time and I had a play phone in the shape of McDonald's french fries and we played with the phone back and forth. I acted like I was talking on the phone and then he did and handed it back to me and said it was for me and then the "call" ended. There were also many memories of the family playing card games at the kitchen table almost every night it felt like it at least when we stayed the night there with our grandma and uncles (Clint being one). I miss you and I'm thankful that back in 2015 you were such a blessing to help me buy diapers for my son when I didn't have the finances available. I love you so much and I miss you so much and I pray that Jesus blessed you and that you were able to find Jesus. The short times I actually got to know you and spend time with you I was an adult but I'm grateful for this morning times. I wish I could see you today to tell you that no matter what pasts we have that Jesus loves us even through them. That with every moment He is with us. I'm sad that I didn't get to see you the last 10 years and this is how I find you after trying to message you a few days ago. I couldn't believe it, I couldn't handle the fact that I didn't get to see you before you left this Earthly world. I had so many mixed emotions and am finally feeling peace due to prayer and trusting in Jesus. I love you Clint. Jesus always leaves the 99 to find the 1 and I truly believe that He tried to find you. You sent out friend requests to family over the last 10 years and even though I couldn't accept it then I tried to this last year. I figured if Jesus could give us more than one chance then we could give others more than one chance. I'm sorry if you ever felt unloved, unwanted, or like a black sheep. I felt that way growing up. I could only imagine how you felt. I'm not sure what you went through in life, but I pray that you know how loved you are if you are in the arms of Jesus right now. I pray that you are. I just have to keep believing and praying that you found the Lord and the goodness He shows us all. Again, I love you, from one of the lost ones that Jesus found to another, I love you and I miss you and always will and pray that when it's my time to meet Jesus that our family is resurrected together and well all see one another again.

✝️❤️🙏 Love always,
Your Great Niece,
Sara Metz 🙏❤️✝️
