“ You've been gone for 4 years once it hits the 9th I pass by your house every day when I go some where there's not really a way to avoid it but I can't stand to look in at it it haunts me to know what happened in that house the very house we would hangout in I still remember building snow men in the field behind your house when it snowed and during the summer playing basket ball at the church right next to it ever since you passed everything has shifted the neighborhood doesn't feel the same no one's the same since you've been gone and It hurts its like you never lived here even tho you did and it sucks so much not having someone to go we miss you grey

“ i remember the time they got demonias and they were so excited about it but didn't want to spoil the surprise for anyone else so he came to me and told me all about them and how he was dying his hair and i told him that i thought he was so cool. that was the last time we had a genuine conversation.
