

Leah Diane Long

March 16, 1984 - September 27, 2025

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

SO

“ I was closer with Leah than my own daughter. She was a very unique lady. Her quality was something else. Her willingness to help newcomers, smiles for everyone even when she was struggling. She was a gift to me and for anyone who really new the real Leah. I knew her upsides, downs and her sideways! Lolol 😂 and how much she was willing to keep moving forward even with difficulties she faced. People who weren't close to her had no idea what she battled with each day just to be. She fought to win for a long while, She was dedicated to change and so willing. But the disease she battled with the hardest sometimes it's just too much on top of the struggle's of other illnesses. This disease is hideous and deadly, it takes so many. I was proud of her, for her, and told her often how awesome she was doing because she was. She wanted for her families acceptance and forgiveness. She told me many many times about her Aunt Rachel and Kevin who never gave up on her meant so much. A beautiful gem she was and still is in my heart. The world is less one more gem God gave us. My comfort is knowing that I will see her in the Kingdom of the Lord one day. I will once again see that beautiful smile, getting the long hugs she gave me each time we saw each other and then when we parted. I miss her terribly. And that is how I choose to remember her.

Shelly Oliver - October 16, 2025 at 02:09 PM

CC

“ Cory Cribbs lit a candle in memory of Leah Diane Long

cory Cribbs - October 09, 2025 at 10:07 PM

CC

“ All of us are flawed people, but our hope should always be that when we're gone we leave behind good for others to cherish. The little memories and moments that seem like typical everyday stuff at the time, but impacted others in a way that maybe we didn't understand or fully appreciate at the time. A simple genuine smile, or a heartfelt laugh, that spread to others and brought them joy. These are the moments that I choose to remember about Leah. Her smile easy, her laughter contagious.

cory Cribbs - October 09, 2025 at 10:03 PM

SO

She was a precious gem to me. She didn't have to be perfect, non are. Her smile, her laughter, her humor was just halarious! She left a permanent spot on my heart. My life is permanently changed with her not here anymore 😞

Shelly Oliver - October 16, 2025 at 01:31 PM

SS

“ Susan Seawright lit a candle in memory of Leah Diane Long

Susan Seawright - October 02, 2025 at 02:52 PM

MC

“ Mary Catherine lit a candle in memory of Leah Diane Long

Mary Catherine - October 01, 2025 at 04:36 PM