“ Oh Mr Lu, where do I even begin? In spite of all your recent hospital stays, this was a shock to me. I know you didn't want to share or focus on the details of your illness and I believe it was because you just wanted to enjoy life and you want everybody privileged enough to be called your friend to be happy. You always had the right words, a warm smile and a pleasant tone in your voice any time I needed some positivity to uplift me. When something came along trying to knock you down you stood your ground and figured out a way. Your steadfastness and warm personality helped you in your dealings with almost anyone. I admire that quality in a person. You had so many friends, a lot of people loved you and are really feeling your absence. Jeff and I are going to miss you but hopefully it gets easier as time wears on. To the Moon my friend, much love and respect to you.
