Steven Jay Colbert (affectionately called Stevie) was born on October 20, 1958 in Tulsa, Oklahoma to Sylvester J. and Willa B. Colbert. He was the 2nd born to this family of four children. He was preceded in death by father Sylvester, his siblings Bryce and Delois, and his son Shawn.

Steve graduated from Central High School in 1976. During his high school years, he was part of two different bands: Freestyle and Friction. The groups were full of talented individuals who went on to have wonderful careers in the music industry. His talents were unmatched. There wasn't an instrument he couldn't play by ear. His singing was top notch.

He married Debbie Stewart in 1978 and to this union three beautiful daughters were born.

Stevie will be missed by many. His survivors include his mother, Willa; siblings Ronald, Jerri, La Donna, and Regina; his daughters La Teceia, Ashley, and Lauren; grandchildren Laiyana, Jamie, Zoe, Quenton, and Isaiah; and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

“ I Love You Cousin Stevie. I'm sure going to miss our arguments that we use to have every time we would see each other or speak on the phone since we were kids. You would always tease me by calling me Piggy Wiggy; but it never really bothered me because my nickname was Pig. I have always enjoyed our arguments. I loved talking to my Cousin Stevie on the phone or seeing you in person because I knew you were going to tease me about my name that never really bothered me at all. ”
