Not many people can say they had a true and real Fairy Godmother. I was lucky enough to meet Susan when I was a young girl. She showed me love love love and fun fun fun. I remember going to Susan's with my brother where we were allowed to have a Pepsi on ice! I took myself upstairs to help myself to her large make up collection. We howled into her laundry shoot and talked to ghosts. She always had cats around to torture. I would lay in Susan's lap while she and my mom visited and she would caress my arm so lovingly, which comforted my heart. I saw how much she loved my parents and how much fun they all had together. Dinner parties, doing "stupid human tricks" practicing to one day get on the Letterman Show, lobster dinner parties, home videos of the Lifestyles of the NOT so rich and famous, and so much more. When our family fell on hard times, Susan would have never let us kids go without presents and so she played Santa Clause for a few years. She LOVED hard. LIVED well. and LAUGHED at everything, because she knew how ridiculous it would be to take anything too seriously. I am me because you were in my life, Susan. You were like a second mother in many ways. You will be missed. Thank you for all of your love!!!!

You meet people who forget you. You forget people you meet. But sometimes you meet those people you can't forget. Those are my Friends, Bert and Susan. Thank you Susan for loving me, teaching me to think outside the box. How to drink wine and spill it gracefully. To not be afraid of knocking on Rectory Doors at midnight when we were out of wine. To have lobster races on your kitchen floors. To pick flowers and enjoy. LAUGH, LAUGH, LAUGH.... To toast the sunset over the Walmart sign, I still think of that when we drive past there. Shots (and not what your thinking), walking in the woods, loving my boys, Farloom, Red Converse tennis shoes and so much more. I think a part of me will always be waiting on you. Rest in Peace my dear sister and friend. Love you Bert, BJ and family.
